Mr. Davis, the chairman of the Water Committee, denied that the committee bad kept anything hid from the Council or that

Mr. Curtis asked why the Committee on Water had held secret meetings of late. He had understood that anonymous letters had been received giving information on this subject, and he had also understood there was a man in the water department receiving money improperly.

Mr. Davis assured the Council that neither they nor the Superintendent had anything to conceal; that the committee had held secret meetings and there considered these charges and these anonymous letters (which he spurned). He desired it distinctly understood that if there was anything against this officer he would like to have it-would like to solicit it. He would thank the Council for it.

Mr. Talbott wanted it all to come out, and when it was made public the Council would see that they were making a mountain out
